The Partnership Board has been doing its work for a long time.

The Board members have decided they want to look at how the Board works to check it is up to date and can make a difference for people in Kent.

Learning Disability England are working with people, groups, and organisations to agree how the Partnership Board could work in the future.

The plan is to make sure the Partnership Board can make a difference in the future.

This includes looking at how the Board works now, what is good, what could be better and how the Board fits into the bigger picture of what else is happening in Kent.
